Enunett:

In a memorandum to the DD/S dated 23 January 1963, the President, Potomac Rifle and Pistol Club, asked that part of Room BC-11 be made available to the Office of Personnel for use as a rifle range. His request was referred to the Director of Logistics for comment.

Attached is a copy of the Logistics reply. Please follow up as you see fit on the suggestion in paragraph four.

SUBJECT: Rifle and Pistol Range in CIA Headquarters Building

1. We have looked into the possibility of assigning part of room BC-11 to the Office of Personnel for use as a rifle range.
2. We believe that the area in question should not be assigned for this purpose. We do have an alternate suggestion.
3. Some of the drawbacks to assigning this area as a rifle range are as follows:
 - a. PBS uses the area for storage of wall partitioning stock for the Headquarters building.
 - b. The Agency is using the area for permanent storage and as a work area for commercial business machine repair.
 - c. Rifle and pistol shot sounds will be acoustically transmitted through the air conditioning ducts into the offices they serve.
 - d. No change of supply nor exhaust of air was planned for this area. Gunpowder fumes and stagnant air there might be dangerous and unhealthy since air conditioning and ventilation are not available. Air conditioning supply and return ducts now running through this area are parts of a main distribution system and should not be modified since they are performing their maximum consistent with original design. Providing air and air change to this area would be expensive.

e. Ricochet bullets could enter the overhead ductwork and cause damage to various pipes and valves which are exposed in this area. Costly provisions would be necessary to shield these building features. Additionally, lighting in the access area is not satisfactory for personnel movements through the area. Lighting in the proposed range area could be increased to be satisfactory for range standards.

f. A preliminary engineering estimate indicates costs of the construction well in excess of the $2,000 estimate of the Potomac Rifle and Pistol Club.

4. More easily modified space may have been overlooked. An example is the long basement corridor between the north and south basement areas which generally corresponds with the building's "I" and "E" corridors. While the corridor is only 13 feet wide, there is no overhead ductwork requiring shielding and the air circulation is much better than that in the BC-11 area. It is suggested that representatives of the Potomac Rifle and Pistol Club examine the area for acceptability.
